

GREETINGS AND GOODBYES

Teach the children a variety of greetings and goodbyes in Greek. The following can be used on a regular basis throughout the year. Perhaps begin each Greek lesson by introducing or reinforcing a greeting or goodbye. Children will need encouragement to remember, so repetition of greeting and goodbye activities will be important. Featured below are two examples of the activities and a list of possible greetings and goodbyes. Feel free to add your own ideas.

Hand out counters, and ask those children who have one to respond in Greek, after they have been greeted. They may wish to choose a response flashcard from the floor.

Καλησπέρα, Πέτρο. Good afternoon, Peter.
Πώς είσαι; How are you?

Responses: Είμαι πολύ καλά, ευχαριστώ.
I am very well thank you.
Και συ;
And you?

Introduce or reinforce the following goodbye form using flashcards. Each child can say 'See you tomorrow' in Greek, to the person next to him/her.

Θα σε δω αύριο Ιουλία.
See you tomorrow Julie.

COMMUNICATIVE SKILLS

Teach the children a variety of common, everyday communicative skills that are not covered in the Greek lessons. This exercise will develop the children's ability to ask and answer Greek questions. You may like to structure the communicative activities based on level eg simple for K-3 and more advanced for 4-6. Use a puppet for the younger children to encourage and motivate them. Repeat the activities once or twice through the year. Featured below are two examples of the activities and a list of possible communicative skills. Feel free to add your own ideas.

The Greek puppet can choose a variety of children at random. He asks them, one at a time, what their family names are, in Greek. The children can respond in English or Greek depending on year level.

Πώς είναι το επίθετό σου;
What is your family name?

It is Smith. or Το επίθετό μου είναι Σμιθ.
Είναι Σμιθ My family name is Smith.

In Greek, ask a variety of children what they are doing on the weekend. Younger children can choose a Greek flashcard sentence from the floor that best describes what they might be doing on the weekend. Older children can have their sentences translated and written on the board.

Τι κάνεις το Σαββατοκύριακο;
What are your plans for the weekend?

Πάυλο, φέρε μου δύο κύβους.
Paul, bring me two cubes.

Ask the children to draw a number of friends between one and ten on a piece of paper. The children can label their work appropriately in Greek.

Note: Greek nouns are masculine, feminine or neuter.

NUMBERS TO FIFTEEN

Revise the numbers to ten in Greek, by asking the children to guess which number the teacher is thinking of. The child who guesses the number is next to have a turn. Play this several times.

Introduce the numbers eleven to fifteen in Greek, using flashcards. Choose a variety of children at random. In Greek, ask them to one at a time bring the teacher a certain number of cubes, like last week.

ONE O'CLOCK TO TWELVE O'CLOCK

Using flashcards and a large clock, demonstrate from one o'clock to twelve o'clock, in full hour only. Reinforce that the long hand always goes on the twelve for 'o'clock' and the short hand points to the numbers.

Play a game where a child comes to the front and creates a time on the clock. Other children try to say the time in Greek. Repeat the game several times. Reward those children who have a go.

For example, if the teacher wants to consolidate 'The Classroom' theme the children may draw a teacher, pencil or paper.

The children return to the circle and share their pictures with the class. Encourage each child to say what his/her picture is in Greek. Older, or more advanced, children can be asked to draw the pictures and write the words in Greek.

The teacher can describe one in English while the other children try to guess what it is in Greek. The child with the correct guess can pick the Greek flashcard from the floor and then has a turn at describing a different piece of furniture. Repeat the activity several times. The children divide a piece of paper into four and draw a piece of furniture in each square. The furniture is then labelled in Greek.
